Mabel Normand Laughs at Police Theory, Ignores Self Defense Plea of Chauffeur Who Shot Denver Oil Man

WOUNDED MAN SAYS ASSAIL-
ANT WAS "FULL OF HOPS"

Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—What drove Horace Greer, Mable Normand's chauffeur, to shoot Corliss S. Dines, Denver oil man, in Dines' apartment here New Year's night in the presence of Miss Normand and Edna Purviance, another screen actress, today is a matter on which those most intimately concerned seem utterly unable to agree. Greer still insists he shot in self defense. Police are equally positive infatuation for Miss Normand caused Greer to shoot. Miss Normand ridicules the infatuation theory and ignores the self-defense plea. Dines, lying in a hospital, says he does not know why "that fool shot me," but declares he must have been "full of hops."

TWELFTH CENTURY DEPICTED ON SCREEN IN "ROBIN HOOD"

Mankind owes a great deal to the power of motion pictures for taking one back through the vista of years bygone and showing how things were when "you were a tadpole and I was a fish."

Now comes Douglas Fairbanks and takes folk back eight hundred years and reveals to them how things looked and how they acted when chivalry was at its zenith. He accomplishes this notably in his latest United Artist production, "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," which critics pronounce the greatest motion picture ever made and which is coming today and Friday to the Manning Theatre.

The joys and sorrows of the stirring Twelfth Century in England have been lived all over again in this modern day before the camera and the portrayal is deemed absolutely accurate, this whole production being based on every fact available in all the records extant.

The castle of the Norman period, surrounded by the inevitable deep moat, comes to the screen as the result of the consummate skill of American engineers, architects, artists and artisans and it is unquestionably a perfect replica of the center of knightly activity of eight hundred years ago.

Perhaps the most interesting single feature of this castle is the tremendous drawbridge, which when raised makes the big structure inaccessible, thanks to the depth and width of the moat. This drawbridge is raised and lowered with precision when needed and it serves to support many mounted and unmounted soldiers and knights in numerous dashing charges in and out of the building.

During the many months in which the Pickford-Fairbanks Studio is at Hollywood verveing over to the filming of this epochal photoplay, the whole place was a constant maze of spears. About two thousand spears and an equal number of swords were used and there were five hundred dagger holders. All of these weapons were hand-made and were exact copies of the very instruments of warfare which made the fighter of the Twelfth Century so formidable.

SENATORS FAVOR ANY PROGRESS

Southeastern Kentucky Legislator Says
Republicans Are For All Forward Moves

PINEVILLE, Jan. 3.—Republicans in the general assembly will back any plan for the advancement of the commonwealth and will not stand in the way of any measure which will make Kentucky go forward, Senator White L. Moss, of Pineville, and Senator H. M. Brock of Harlan announced after a conference here in regard to legislation to be proposed at the opening of the legislature next week.

Both Senator Moss and Senator Brock declared themselves heartily in favor of any bond issue that will aid roads or help educational facilities of the state. They declared they would support any measure that would aid the geological survey, the penal and charitable institutions, the white and colored normal schools or any issue that would wipe out the state debt.

"The Republicans will be back of any measure that looks to the advancement of Kentucky," Senator Brock said after the conference, "and we will not stand in the way of any measure that will make Kentucky go forward." "Governor Fields will have our loyal support on any bond issue that is properly safeguarded," he said. "I know," Senator Moss said, "that a great many people prefer the joy as you go plan followed in Ohio and other states, and I believe that the legislature should have both plans before it so that in the event one fails the other can be taken up," Senator Moss said. Regardless of the fact that I have always been for a bond issue for roads, I would like to see both plans before the general assembly merely as a precaution to guarantee some good roads legislation.

FIRST KIWANIS PROGRAM THIS YEAR ENJOYED

Bosworth Urges Citizens to Protest Delay on Corbin Road—Reveals Importance of Religion to Kiwanis

LOCAL WOMEN GIVE BEAUTIFUL MUSICAL SELECTIONS

T. R. Hill, chairman of the Kiwanis club program today, the first of the year, provided an unusually interesting program and was rewarded by an unusually good attendance. Mr. Hill gave the first prize drawn by W. D. Motch, and the silent host, pencils. The program was made up of music and of talks by members. Hugh Allen, the first speaker, talked on "Kiwanis Spirit," and stressed importance of the observation of the Golden Rule in every day relations as the fundamental of true Kiwanis spirit. He urged support of all worthy local movements, particularly the schools, the Community Chest and helping the under privileged child.

Senator J. F. Bosworth, the next on the program, spoke on his favorite subject, Roads. He brought up the matter of the suit pending to test validity of the contract recently let for construction of the road from Corbin to Harboursville. He pointed out that this might delay construction indefinitely, thus making the new roads on this side of Harboursville useless. He urged creation of public sentiment toward finishing this road, and suggested that a committee of prominent democrats be appointed to confer with Governor Fields and show him the importance of taking Kentucky out of the detour class. The committee, appointed by President Blackburn, follows: T. R. Hill, Hugh Allen, G. F. Schenck and J. F. Bosworth. Mr. Bosworth also touched on the $75,000,000 bond issue proposed by Governor Fields, saying he would favor it if it was kept out of politics, but that he would be opposed to it if it provided for only a party distribution. He also spoke of a bill he intended to introduce providing for a road from Harboursville to Fonda.

C. A. Blackburn, next speaker, had as his subject, "Leaders and Leadership," and he urged the co-operation of all Kiwanians to co-operate in their work and spoke particularly of his confidence in his board of directors and the men who headed the committees for the year.

The next speaker, a particularly enjoyable one, was a musical selection, "The Little Danesel," sung by Mrs. Edward Yeager accompanied by Mrs. J. T. Albers on the piano and Mrs. R. L. Maddox on the mandolin. The number was applauded enthusiastically and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" was given as an encore.

Two talks, by C. O. Brown and C. G. Smyth, were omitted because of lack of time. The last on the program was by the Rev. A. B. Reeves on "Kiwanis Religion," in which he made an eloquent plea for as much interest in the churches as in the Club. He brought out three points, that the religious ideal is a fact that cannot be overlooked, that it will find expression through the regular organized channels if encouraged, and then that citizens cannot afford to let the club take the place of the church as it is likely to do. He urged earnestly that all church interests in town might be brought to work together.

COVINGTON, Jan. 2.—More than 8,000 writs of arrest from various sections of the Eastern District of Kentucky have passed through the office of U. S. Marshall Hoy B. Williams, during the past eighteen months, as shown by report just completed by Emmett Orr, chief deputy in the office.

Of these approximately 5,000 have been served, and 50 per cent were for arrests growing out of violations of the Volstead law, the report relates. Fees earned for services of these writs totalled $24,564.74 with an attending expense of about $17,287.97, and salaries paid to marshals and deputies aggregating $127,133.61.

"Witness fees paid by the marshal in the prosecution of these cases have been more than $41,000 each year," the report continued. The amount paid to jurors has been nearly $80,000 and for jury service $26,346.10.

TRAFFIC INFLUENCE ON ROAD SURFACE

State Engineer Shows Superiority
Hard Surface in Places Where Traffic Is Heavy

American Press
FRANKFORT, Jan. 2.—After the volume of traffic in Kentucky increases as it must according to J. T. Madison, assistant engineer in the department of State Roads and Highways, the necessity to keep the roads open and passable at all times will also increase. From the viewpoint of service interruption of traffic while maintaining the roads must be considered, he said today.

Kentuckians already understand how objectionable surface treatment is and how much damage is often done by the fresh oil or tar to automobiles; also how it slows up traffic and increases the skidding hazard many times," he said. "On main traveled roads where surface treatment must be applied on an average of once each year or year and a half, it can be understood how these operations become more and more objectionable because of interruption to traffic.

"With a hard surface road that does not require surface treatment is so much easier to properly serve the public by reason of the less expensive nature of maintenance work."

YOUNG EMPLOYE SINGS TO CALM MEN CAUGHT BY FIRE

PEKIN, Ill., Jan. 3.—Between 20 and 35 persons were killed and over 100 were injured according to estimates, in a dust explosion of the Corn Products Refining Co. near here, today. Seventy-two men were in the starch house when the explosion occurred. Officials refrained from making any estimate of the number of dead, who were trapped in the third floor of the plant. Frank Lichtweiss, a young employee of the plant, sang to his fellow workers for nearly an hour to calm them, and when their last retreat was cut off, jumped from the blazing building. He did not jump, however, until all the men who were able to leave the floor, had done so. He was severely burned and is now in the hospital.

Associated Press
PEORIA, Ill., Jan. 3.—Physicians said about 200 of the injured men were likely to die of burns. The explosion occurred at 3:35 o'clock this morning. Between 20 and 35 men were trapped in the basement of the starch house. All of these were apparently killed. In addition, five men, working in box cars near the building, are missing, and they, too, are believed dead, as the cars were destroyed by the blast. The Corn Products plant is two miles from Pekin. Relatives and friends of the men employed in the plant rushed to their aid when the explosion was heard in Pekin. Fire apparatus was rushed to the spot from both Pekin and Peoria, but on their arrival at the plant the found the starch house a blazing furnace. At noon the fire was under control and seven boilers had been removed. Others could be hours before the ruins cool sufficient to enable a search for the missing.

J. WILL TAYLOR FAVORS BIG APPROPRIATION FOR PARK

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. Jan. 3.—An appropriation of $25,000,000, rather than $5,000,000 for the acquisition of a national forest and game preserve in the Smoky Mountains, is favored by Congressman J. Will Taylor of the Second Tennessee district.

An amendment to the Shields bill now pending in Congress which provides for an appropriation of $5,000,000 under the Weeks forestry bill, so as to increase the appropriation to $25,000,000 will probably be offered by Congressman Taylor.

Taylor says that he is heartily in sympathy with the movement for a national park in this section and that he favors an appropriation sufficient to purchase a large area in the Appalachians.

"Five million dollars is not enough to acquire the area in East Tennessee that should be made a great national reserve," Taylor said. "And I am in favor of making it $25,000,000."

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

STARCHY FOODS

MORE starchy foods are included in the winter diet than in the spring and summer months.

Their function is to produce heat and energy. Starchy foods must be converted into sugar before they are assimilated by the body and hence are slowly digested.

It's rather interesting to know that a person of good digestive and assimilative capacity who indulges largely in starches becomes stout while he who fails to digest them grows thin. The system seems to become acid and the more he eats the thinner he grows.

Most desserts are starchy foods to a certain extent, although the milk and eggs add some protein to the dish. Rice, tapioca, sago, corn starch, coconut and green bananas are very starchy.

Macaroni and spaghetti and all of that family are starchy foods, and should be served with their composition in mind.

Potatoes, Hubbard squash, parsnips, ripe beans, peas and lentils are also starches.

In planning the meals not more than two starchy foods should be provided. So if two starchy vegetables accompany the meat the dessert should be lacking in this element.

If a dinner consists of soup, meat potatoes and a green salad the dessert might well be of rice, tapioca or any pudding rich in starch.

This rice soufflé should follow a light meat course for a dinner or figure as the main dish for luncheon.

Rice Soufflé
Three teaspoons rice, 4 cups milk, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Wash rice through several waters. Add to one cup boiling water and boil till tender. Drain and pour boiling water over rice. Remove from fire and add raisins, seeded and plumped with boiling water. Add vanilla and mix thoroughly. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Turn into a well buttered baking dish and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve with hard sauce flavored with vanilla and nutmeg and made soft with a few table-spoons of whipped cream.

If a succulent vegetable is served with the meat and the dessert is of fruit the second starchy food may appear in the same salad.

Rice Salad
One and one-half cups carefully cooked cold rice, 1 cup diced tart apple, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup nut meats, boiled salad dressing.

The rice should be carefully boiled and "fluffed", mix lightly with apple, celery and nuts and enough salad dressing to make moist. Serve on a bed of shredded lettuce with a spoonful of currant jelly as a garnish.

Starchy foods create quick energy but do not make muscle, supply reserve force and enrich the blood as do the proteins, fats and minerals. But as more heat is needed during the winter months to combat the cold weather, starches play an important part in the winter diet and must not be neglected.

BOUDOIR PILLOW

This pillow for the boudoir is intended to be ornamental rather than useful, and it fills its original purpose so well one could scarcely ask more of it.

Cover a satin-covered pillow with this ruffles of silk or ribbon that will give the effect of the following crinoline skirts of Civil War days. In the center arrange a doll's head and body, dressed as smartly as you can.

The same idea may be used for a pin cushion or for the top of a powder box. Charming French dolls with most sophisticated faces and elaborate coiffures may be purchased for these very purposes.

The New Touring Car $295 F.O.B. DETROIT

A Striking Value—at $295

Considering the improved appearance of the new Ford Touring Car, one would naturally expect a proportionate advance in price.

Increasing its cost to the purchaser.

A comparison extending over a long period of years will reveal the fact that the present price is actually the lowest at which the five-passenger open car has ever been sold.

The Ford Touring Car stands today, as it always has, a most remarkable value in the motor car field.

This Car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan
